FELIX FINKBEINER: On May 4, Finkbeiner was accompanied by some 200 children to plant the one millionth tree in Germany at the Petersberg Climate Dialogue in Bonn. He started his Plant for the Planet initiative in 2007 with the goal of planting a million trees in each country around the world as a sign of climate justice. It has made it to 72 countries so far and growing.

GENE: "I am inspired by Felix's passion about our planet. From the eyes of someone so young and so much common sense, it is hard to realize what the grown up world is willing to destroy on our planet. And for what? And then we die and the children are to bare the future we did not create so that they could enjoy a life that supports humanity. What are we really doing to each other and our world?"
